Sprint 4 Report, SWAP, 12/5//23

· Actions to stop doing:

We should avoid engaging in extensive debugging sessions during team meetings, because it is not the most efficient use of collective time. Instead, meetings should be leveraged for collaborative planning, discussing strategic approaches to problem-solving, and clarifying the bugs and challenges. This shift will encourage more efficient use of meeting time for decision-making and planning, while detailed debugging should be reserved for individual work or smaller, focused groups with around 2 people. This approach aims to enhance our collaborative efficiency and ensure that meetings are productive and purposeful.

· Actions to start doing:

We are going to start telling each other when we push to main in github and what is being pushed, so that everyone and their branches are as up to date as possible. This will avoid a bunch of merge conflicts.

· Actions to keep doing:

We will continue having demos of our code via zoom as they greatly improve the team's understanding of each other's work and improve productivity. This helps quicken the learning curve of each other's work.

· Work completed/not completed:

Not completed: None.

Completed: Rendering MyFollowers and Following, Following and Follower Backend, HomeFeed backend, Accepting/Declining Offers Backend, Notifications with delete button.

· Work completion rate:

We completed all of the tasks for our 3 user stories for this sprint. We completed the UI and backend for rendering of the user's following and followers, the home feed backend, and the backend for the follow/unfollow button, the recommended feed backend, accepting/declining offers backend, notifications with delete button.

. We spent about 10 hours each on completing our individual tasks. We completed 3 tasks, on average, for our 3 user stories. Our average work hours per day was 2 hours.
